About This Game

A game about never-ending problem of loading screens. We've all experienced it while playing games, while downloading something, while installing an operating system ect. And now you can experience it once again in Loading Screen Simulator: Steam edition

This is a classical clicker style game. Click the button get points, spend those points, get more points, repeat, ...? , profit. Originally this game started as a weekend project just for fun. And I never expected it to be a part of Steam but a lot of people wanted it, so here you go. You're welcome

This version is a little different from the original. It has 19 achievements and some minor changes

Music from the game was made by Kevin Macleod
Music from the trailer "in the hall of the mountain king"
